

Orlando Sentinel

★ FINAL EDITION

Tuesday, July 17, 2018

$2.00

Weather

8 A.M.: 81°
2 P.M.: 93°
5 P.M.: 91°
CHANCE OF RAIN: 40%
WEATHER REPORT, C6

Index

BUSINESS A10
COMICS B6
DEATHS B3
GAMES B5
LOCAL NEWS B1
LOTTERY B2
OPINION A12
SPORTS C1
TV B4

News Now

LOCAL & STATE

◆ A PREGNANT WOMAN IS DEAD and two children are injured in a shooting in Pine Hills, Orange County Sheriff Jerry Demings says. B1

◆ A HOUSEKEEPING SERVICE scrubs cancer patients' worries away, cleaning their homes for free. B1

◆ NO CHARGES WILL BE FILED in the death of a developmentally disabled resident at the soon-to-be-shuttered Carlton Palms Educational Center, the State Attorney's Office decided. B2

NATION & WORLD

◆ BRITISH PRIME MINISTER THERESA MAY accepts amendments to a customs bill put forward by Brexit hardliners who oppose her plan for a "common rule book" with the European Union after the country leaves the bloc. A3

◆ A FEDERAL JUDGE orders a temporary halt to any deportations of reunited families who were separated by the Trump administration after crossing the southwest border. A6

◆ FORMER PRESIDENT BARACK OBAMA praises Kenya's president and opposition leader for working together but said the East African country must do more to end corruption. A8

BUSINESS

◆ A 71-YEAR-OLD MAN with a pre-existing heart condition had a fatal heart attack after visiting the wave pool at Disney's Blizzard Beach water park last month, a state report says. A10

SPORTS

◆ A LOOK AT APOPKA NATIVE Zack Greinke's previous all-star turns ahead of his fifth All-Star Game appearance tonight. C1

◆ EVEN THOUGH JIMBO FISHER is at Texas A&M now, FSU needs to realize just how much he did for their program, Mike Bianchi writes. C1

PEOPLE & ARTS

◆ A LOST SCREENPLAY by Stanley Kubrick, written in 1956, has been found. A2

TOP STORY

Trump sides with Putin on Russia investigation denial

BY ELI STOKOLS
AND SABRA AYRES
Washington Bureau

HELSINKI — President Donald Trump slammed the special counsel's investigation into his campaign's possible election collusion with Russia and, with Russian President Vladimir Putin alongside him at a news conference Monday, seemed to accept Putin's denials of wrongdoing over the unanimous conclusions of U.S. intelligence officials.

The president also blamed the United States for relations with Moscow that he said have "never been worse." He added, "However, that changed as of about four hours ago" — referring to his meeting with Putin at Finland's presidential palace.

When Trump was asked by a U.S. reporter whether he believes Putin or his own intelligence officials, who unanimously say Russia did intervene for Trump, he

Please turn to TRUMP, A3

■ Putin offers to interview indicted intelligence officers for Mueller, A3
■ GOP reaction harsh, A3

President slams Mueller, blames U.S. for tensions with Moscow

CHRIS MCGRATH/GETTY IMAGES

President Donald Trump and Russian President Vladimir Putin shake hands at a press conference in which they addressed the controversies about U.S. indictment of Russians for interference in the 2016 election.

Mount Dora set to settle 'Van Gogh house' flap

Council to consider agreement tonight to keep painted walls

BY RYAN GILLESPIE
Staff Writer

The artistic debate over a Mount Dora house painted in the likeness of Vincent van Gogh's "Starry Night" — is it beautiful or hideous? — may rage on. But the question of whether the head-turning paint job remains is about to be decided.

City Council members tonight will consider a settlement agreement that the homeowners said will allow the painting to stay, ending a protracted code-enforcement dispute that caused a stir on social media and became an offbeat tourist attraction in a city known as a haven for artists.

Homeowners Lubomir Jastrzebski and his wife, Nancy Nemhauser, said the settlement calls for waiving more than $10,000 in fines, removing a lien on the home along Old U.S. Highway 441, a couple of blocks from downtown, and allowing them to complete the painting on two remaining walls of the house.

Early this year, the Pacific Legal Foundation, which has won victories before the U.S. Supreme Court in cases championing individual rights, took up the couple's cause in a federal lawsuit alleging, among other things, that their First Amendment right of free expression had been violated.

Though happy with the agree-

Please turn to HOUSE, A4

RICARDO RAMIREZ BUXEDA/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Lubomir Jastrzebski and Nancy Nemhauser say they painted their "Van Gogh house" to enable their autistic son to tell people where he lives.

2 teens to serve about 1 year in fatal Winter Park beating

BY GAL TZIPERMAN LOTAN
Staff Writer

The two teenagers convicted of beating 15-year-old Roger Trindade to death in Winter Park nearly two years ago were sentenced to about a year in a juvenile detention facility Monday.

Simeon Hall and Jesse Sutherland will be in a high-risk juvenile facility, considered a mid-range commitment, Circuit Judge Jenifer Harris ruled. Assistant State Attorney Teri Mills-Uvalle asked for a 9-to-14-month commitment for Simeon and 9 to 12 months for Jesse, but the Department of Juvenile Justice will decide exactly how long their sentences will be depending on behavior, among other factors.

After their release, they will be given ankle monitors and put on community control for a period of time that Department of Juvenile Justice will determine, possibly until their 21st birthdays.

Neither teenager spoke during sentencing.

Both Jesse and Simeon also were 15 years old when they were arrested. They were convicted of manslaughter in May.

That verdict prompted Trindade's mother, Adriana Thomé, to write a scathing letter to Circuit Judge Jenifer Harris, who oversaw the case. Harris read the letter on the stand for the first time Monday.

Harris decided last month to

Please turn to TEENS, A2

Therapists offer 6 ways to tap mindful living's benefits

BY KATIE PARSONS
Staff Writer

Meditation, or mindfulness of the body and present state, is a way to slow down and just breathe. Mindfulness sounds like an exercise in mental health, but it can also improve your physical health.

Recent research finds that consistent meditation can reduce the risk of heart disease, improve sleep and even increase gray matter in the brain.

Nany Sinton is a certified yoga therapist at Breathlink Yoga Therapy in downtown Orlando. She is also the creator of an online course that uses yoga breathing practices to manage anxiety.

She advocates tapping into focused breathing and mindfulness techniques throughout the day in order to stay focused and calm — both attitudes that she thinks are typically lacking in today's society.

"Have you ever mindlessly eaten a meal while watching TV? Driven to a destination thinking about something other than driving? Had a conversation with one or more people who are constantly looking at their phones?" Sinton said. "Mindfulness combats these types of things. It's all about paying attention on purpose to whatever you are doing, or being present."

Julie Sasche is the founder of Orlando-based SAX Meditation and is a certified meditation and mindfulness work in-

Please turn to MEDITATE, A9

WHO WILL WIN

Orlando Sentinel's 2018 Best Bets?

Support your local businesses: Recreation & Entertainment, Dining & Restaurants, Shopping, Home & Services, Beauty & Wellness...

Voting for Finalists starts July 16 | Voting ends August 17

OrlandoSentinel.com/BestBets

Orlando Sentinel

MEDIA GROUP

